- 5.4: Number of authors: The maximum number of authors per article should not exceed three. In the event that the article has more than three, the relevant documentation proving that the work merits more authors should be attached. This situation will be resolved by the Directorate of Cultures, which will review the documentation and decide the continuity of the article in the review and arbitration process.
6. Time of publication: The editorial process of cultural, from the reception of the manuscript up to its publication, without inconveniences, takes on average 5 months (150 days). In the case of application for a third assessment, the process will have an additional duration of 1 month and a half more (195 days). Check times of publication.
7. Copyright: When authors apply for an article to be published in Culturales, they accept the established rules and guidelines of the editorial process and automatically cede the patrimonial rights to the journal Culturales. The authors conserve the copyright and cede the patrimonial right of the first publication to the journal Culturales, granting permission to the Universidad Autónoma de Baja California through the Instituto de Investigaciones Culturales-Museo for the publication, translation, distribution, diffusion and communication of the material in printed and digital media. Once the article has been published, authors may include it in an institutional repository, personal web page or disseminate it through academic networks.
8. Licensing Terms and Open Access: The Culturales journal adheres to the policies of Open Access (AA) of scientific communication and promotes the general exchange of knowledge, facilitates unrestricted access to the contents of our platform from the time of its electronic publication. Culturales is licensed under the International Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 (CC BY 4.0) License which allows you to share, copy and redistribute the material in any medium or format; adapt, remix, transform and create from the material for any purpose, including commercially, giving credit to the work in an appropriate manner and providing a link to the license indicating whether changes have been made.

9. Costs for shipping, processing or downloading: Based on the open access policy (AA) of scientific communication, the Culturales journal does NOT charge for the receipt of proposals, nor does it set fees for the publication of articles. Likewise, all published content can be downloaded from the website, freely without causing any cost to the user.
10. Code of Ethics and Good Publishing Practice: Culturales recognizes and adheres to the principles of transparency and best practices for academic publications promoted by the Ethics Committee for Publication [COPE] and by the Directory of Open Access Journals [DOAJ] to ensure the quality of the editorial process and the authenticity of their publications. For this, we also rely on the Elsevier Group's Resource Package for Ethics in Publication [PERK], and thus have the appropriate protocols to respond to the needs and performances of our authors, readers, opinion leaders and all actors involved in our editorial process. For further information, please consult the document on Buenas Prácticas Editoriales of the journal Culturales. Protocols of administrative action.

10.1 Detection of "Plagiarism": As part of our standards, all authors of the articles received, must ensure the originality of their work. At the same time, and in accordance with our protocols of action, all articles will be reviewed by "antiplagious" software and available electronic databases, to detect duplicate or redundant, plagiarized or fraudulent content in any stage of the editorial process.

- a) If the detection of the case occurs in the editorial review or arbitration process it will be immediately discarded for publication and will remain on its record as a rejected article and will be acted administratively in accordance with the document on Best Practice in Scholarly Publishing of the *Culturales* journal. Protocols of administrative action.
- b) If detection occurs after the article has been published, it will proceed administratively in accordance with the guidelines established by Culturales in its document on Best Practice in Scholarly Publishing of the *Culturales* journal. Protocols of administrative action.
